

AGRICULTURE & FOOD

If You Want to be a Leader
in Agriculture & Food,
You Need to be Here

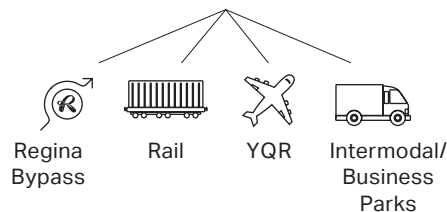

You have direct access to producers and markets. If they aren't already here, they come here for one of the two biggest agriculture shows in the world – Canada's Farm Show and Canadian Western Agribition. In Regina, you have local access to expertise that is unmatched in Western Canada.

A Prime Location

Regina boasts a clean environment, variety of raw materials at competitive costs, high-quality crops and livestock herds, and a low cost of doing business.

TRANSPORTATION AND LOGISTICS INFRASTRUCTURE

Export Infrastructure

Several options for transportation and logistics, including Intermodal. Strong provincial support assists in lean manufacturing, value-added processing, and research and development.

Food & Ingredients

Regina is home to a cutting-edge processing and ingredient value-add sector. Processing wheat, barley, lentils, canola and specialty products like flax and oat products, Regina produces what the world wants.

Supercluster Support

Protein Industries Canada is headquartered in Regina and has a mandate to find, fund and develop plant-based food and ingredient companies and technologies with a mission to make Canada a global leader in the $250 billion plant-based industry.

Agtech Hub

Regina is home to a critical mass of startup agtech companies, incubators, accelerators and a $60 million VC fund dedicated entirely to agtech. Regina is home to world-leading companies in automated agriculture, precision farming, carbon sequestration and byproduct innovation.

The Canola Play

Almost $4 billion in new construction will bring online one of the world's most significant canola crush hubs.

Regina will be home to nearly 5 MMT of new canola crush capacity along with projects from Cargill, Viterra and AGT/FCL. From food oil, livestock feed, renewable fuels, and plant protein, the canola play in Regina is among the world's most important agriculture opportunities.

Homegrown Regina

Regina is a place for growers of all types. Our “homegrown” ingenuity has made us a global powerhouse in agtech and food production – the heartbeat of North America’s new prairie economy.

It’s also a thriving centre for business, social and creative entrepreneurs. Our population – one of the fastest growing in Canada – is young, diverse and ambitious.

Here, people don’t boast. We just get on with things in our own quietly audacious way. What we grow best are people – passionate “doers,” ready to solve some of the worlds biggest challenges, together.

Whether you’ve been here a day, a decade or your entire life, we want you to be part of our “homegrown” experience and energy.
